

TACLS Convention 2007 Photos

Exhibitors from Tyler

Karen McClure, Barnhill Award Winner

Student Forum Officers

Exhibitors from Baylor Healthcare

Joanna Ellis and Rebecca Denham, TACLS Scholarship Winners

Omicron Sigma Recipients

Wendy Sessions from the Texas Department of State Health Services

Dave Falleur, Member of the Year

Omicron Sigma Recipients

Becton-Dickinson

Registration Helpers

Omicron Sigma Recipients

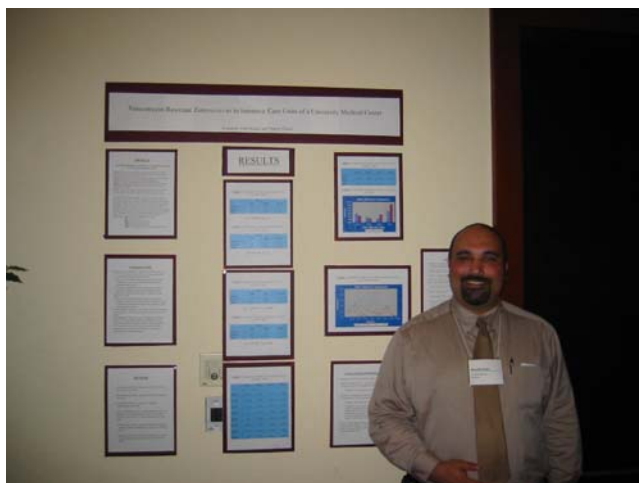

Mireles Technologies

Brandy Greenhill's Presentation on Nucleic Acid Testing

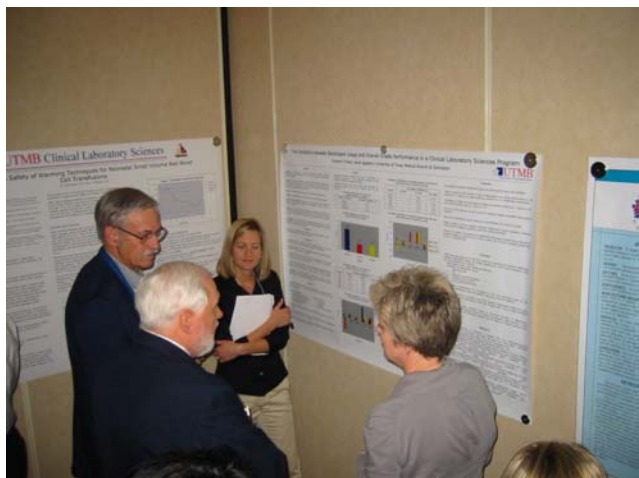

Clinical Laboratory Educators Meeting

UTMB Student With Poster

Duncan Samo Judging Student Poster

Judging Student Posters

The BioRad Professional Achievement Award

It is time to recognize your colleagues for their accomplishments these past few years. You can do so by nominating them for the Kendall Award.

The Bio-Rad Professional Achievement Award was created to recognize an ASCLS member for achievement in a scientific discipline or area of expertise such as education or laboratory administration.

Each Scientific Assembly may present an award to a member who has made significant contributions to that Scientific Assembly. These contributions can include activities such as serving as a Scientific Assembly officer or member of a task force/committee; developing manuals, technical systems, or Web-related courses; presenting workshops, lectures, or seminars; and writing journal articles or textbooks.

To Nominate Someone — any ASCLS member, a constituent Society, or a Scientific Assembly section may make a nomination. Once the nominee submits his or her nomination packet, it will be reviewed by the Awards Committee and judged based on specific criteria. Awards can be given from each Scientific Assembly discipline. All we need are the nominees!

The deadline for submitting the award packet is February 15, 2008. Forms, guidelines, and judging criteria are available on the ASCLS website:

<http://www.ascls.org/leadership/awards/sdg.asp>
They may also be obtained from your state president or the ASCLS Awards Committee contact. The Awards Committee contact for this award is:

Peter Hu
(W) 713-563-3095
pchu@mdanderson.org

TACLS Business Meeting
October 20 in Dallas
Go to www.tacsls.org for the Time, and Location

TACLS News
P.O. Box 474
Edinburg, TX 78540-0474

